Guidelines for students enrolled in UIU courses and receiving tuition remission or tuition exchange:

- Undergraduate students must apply, be accepted, and file a FAFSA (exceptions - non-degree seeking students and employees who are not U.S. citizens).
- All recipients of tuition remission/exchange benefits must meet the requirements of the Standards for Academic Standing (SAS) and the Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) policies per the standards set forth by the institution in order to retain eligibility in subsequent terms.
- Individuals wishing to repeat a course previously covered by tuition remission will not be eligible for remission a second time.
- If a student withdraws or is administratively withdrawn from the class after the add/drop date, tuition remission and tuition exchange will not cover the cost of the course, in accordance with the refund policy as described in the academic catalog. If a student is reinstated in a course previously dropped or administratively withdrawn, tuition remission and tuition exchange will apply.
- If a full-time employee dies while a spouse and/or dependent child is enrolled, tuition benefits will continue through the completion of the program or until the student withdraws, whichever occurs first.
- If an employee retires (after five years of full-time service) while the employee, spouse and/or dependent child is enrolled at UIU, tuition remission benefits will continue through the completion of the program or until the student withdraws, whichever occurs first.
- If an employee becomes permanently disabled while the employee, spouse and/or dependent child is enrolled at UIU, tuition remission benefits will continue through the completion of the program or until the student withdraws, whichever occurs first.
- Employees and dependents receiving tuition benefits do not qualify for additional university-wide grants or scholarships with the exception of Honors and Awards scholarships. Honors and Awards scholarship amounts will be applied to tuition costs prior to tuition remission being applied.
- Those taking courses which exceed the benefit maximum will NOT qualify for additional grants, scholarships or discounts.
- In situations where class times conflict with normal working hours, a signed approval of the employee's supervisor is required prior to the use of release time or altering a work schedule.
- Some UIU study abroad programs are eligible for tuition remission. Please contact the Center for International Education for more information. Study abroad program fees are not eligible for tuition remission.

Rules

The following table summarizes the thresholds at which the tuition remission benefit becomes a taxable fringe benefit to the employee. The total dollar value applied to the benefit is equal to the prevailing cost per credit hour at the time the class is attended, times the number of credit hours taken.

Note: This limitation is an annual amount (January-December)

Student Attending Classes	Undergraduate	Graduate < $5,250	Graduate > $5,250
